

First Edition of the ISTIH eNews

Dear Reader

I am delighted as Chairman to be able to take advantage of this first edition electronic newsletter to reach the International Skills and Training Institute in Health (ISTIH) community.

Our partners, supporters and volunteers of ISTIH have been an integral part of the Institute's achievements over many years and will continue to be critical to our future plans to be able to offer strong leadership skills and experience in developing programs across many clinical disciplines and geographical locations.

To help us achieve this I believe it is important that we continue to provide our supporters, volunteers and partners with information on what we are doing, as well as seeking your comments and input. All of this can be achieved if we stay in touch and work together for our community's benefit.

Professor Michael Henderson

Chairman
International Skills and Training Institute in Health
